RUMBLINGS OF A NEAR EASTERN WAR IMPENDING FOLLOW ON THEIR HEELS

Ismet Pasha, Recalcitrant to the Last, Departed for Angora With a Majority of the Ottoman Delegation, Leaving a Few Secretaries

Russians Still Protesting That the Allies Must Meet Their Terms Regarding the Straits Which They Wish Closed to Warships

(By United Press)

Lausanne, Feb. 7.—Both the Turks and Russians left Lausanne today and rumblings of impending war in the Near East followed on their heels.

Ismet Pasha, recalcitrant to the last, departed for Angora with a majority of the Ottoman delegation at 6:40 a. m., leaving a few secretaries "in case the allies change their minds."

M. Masigli, representing the entente, bade them a cordial farewell at the station, but feeling was that the peace parley was definitely at an end.

The Russians, still protesting that the allies must meet their terms regarding the straits, which they wish closed to warships, left at 8 o'clock.

Great Britain today sent a warship steaming full speed ahead to Smyrna harbor in answer to a Turkish ultimatum that all allied men of war of more than 1,000 tons leave before midnight.

A similar move by the British will be her answer to every ultimatum Turkey issues. It was stated authoritatively, although London still believes war may be averted. The British also started Paris with a flat "no" to the French request for permission to move troops through French occupied Rhine territory. Rail traffic in the Rhineland and Ruhr was in chaos today as the French pushed forward, occupying seven more towns.

Britain May Send Another Delegate

London, Feb. 7.—Britain is preparing to send another delegate to Lausanne and continue to confer with the Turks if categorical assurances are offered that agreement can be reached. It was stated today.

The British cabinet has decided to send a note to the Angora government and ask just what reservations Turkey desires.

If a satisfactory reply is received, Britain may agree to resume discussions with assurances that France will follow suit. Otherwise, the British feel their position in the Near East is extremely sound from a military and economic viewpoint.

Although deprecating a war scare, the military and naval authorities at London are known to be going carefully over the ground, and plans already have been outlined that involve seizure of Constantinople.

Turkish Army Mobilizing

Constantinople, Feb. 7.—Retired and active officers of the Turkish army under Mustapha Kemal have been ordered to register immediately.

The military commander announced all evaders will be punished.

BEN CALLED PIKER AS WEATHER SEER

METEOROLOGIST "TIPS OFF" SECRET OF SUNNY MONDAYS IN FRANKLIN'S BOOK

Minneapolis, Feb. 7.—Ben Franklin wasn't so much a scientist as history credits him with being. At least, his weather predictions could not be called authentic, according to Ford Carpenter, Los Angeles meteorologist, who gave an illustrated lecture on "Clouds and Their Meaning" at the Woman's club.

"When Franklin wrote 'Poor Richard's Almanack,' the first almanac ever published, he made out a weather forecast for the entire year," Mr. Carpenter related. "One day his wife peered over his shoulder and discovered that he had predicted rain for a great many Mondays."

"She didn't like the idea of stormy washdays, so when Franklin had left his work she changed every Monday to a sunny day. Scientist though he was, Franklin left the prognostications as she had altered them. Almanacs have been made ever since then on just such principles."

Mr. Carpenter described how nearly $300,000,000 worth of business in Los Angeles annually is guarded by the Chamber of Commerce meteorological department of which he is the head. By carrying on even more intensive work than the United States weather bureau, he said, crops are protected, cattle are acclimated to prevent shrinkage during the season changes in pasture, and the motion picture producers are enabled to adjust their movements in advance according to the weather.

HARDING PRESENTS AGREEMENT ON THE BRITISH WAR DEBT

SPEAKING BEFORE THE JOINT SESSION THIS MORNING AT CAPITOL

PRESIDENT ASKS CONGRESS TO APPROVE SETTLEMENT SPEEDILY

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 7.—Presenting the agreement for the re-payment of the British debt to congress today, President Harding in a brief message characterized the settlement as "The first clearing of the war clouded skies in a debt burdened world."

The settlement, he further declared, in speaking before a joint session, is in effect a fight against war and war expenditures and a rigid adherence to that production and retrenchment which enhances stability precisely as it distributes obligations.

The President asked congress to approve the settlement speedily.

He coupled with this a warning against spending the money to be paid by Great Britain for a sold bonus or any other project, pointing out that the debt that is to be paid already pledged to there payments investors in American liberty bonds. He also included a brief but emphatic appeal for the ship subsidy bill, declaring that it is as important to stop losses to the government as to collect obligations owed it. He frankly demanded a vote in the senate on the measure.

"I plead for a decision," said Mr. Harding. "If no decision is given" he said, "the executive branch of the government may proceed as best it can to end the loss in liquidation and humiliations."

Cancellation of the war debts as a fancied but fallacious contribution toward peace was denounced by the executive.

Senator Smoot, member of the debt commission, introduced a bill to carry out the settlement provisions outlined by the President.

The bill would also authorize settlement with other countries on the same basis, subject to the approval of the president.

The President asked congress to approve the settlement speedily.

He coupled with this a warning against spending the money to be paid by Great Britain for a sold bonus or any other project, pointing out that the debt that is to be paid already pledged to there payers investors in American liberty bonds.

He also included a brief but emphatic appeal for the ship subsidy bill, declaring that it is as important to stop losses to the government as to collect obligations owed it. He frankly demanded a vote in the senate on the measure.

"I plead for a decision," said Mr. Harding. "If the decision is given" he said, "the executive branch of the government may proceed as best it can to end the loss in liquidation and humilities."

Cancellation of the war debts as a fancied but fallacious contribution toward peace was denounced by the executive.

Senator Smoot, member of the debt commission, introduced a bill to carry out the settlement provisions outlined by the President.

The bill would also authorize settlement with other countries on the same basis, subject to the approval of the president.

TWO MOTHERS ALLOWANCE CASES

Acted Upon by Child Welfare Board,
Also One Adoption Petition Considered

HODSON WROTE TO MEMBERS

Board Discusses Welfare Laws Now
Before the State Legislature.

The Child Welfare Board met in regular session at the court house Saturday at one o'clock. All members of the board were present, Mrs. W. H. Gemmell chairman, Mrs. F. A. Knights, Mrs. Irma C. Hartley, Dr. B. I. Derauf and William Syreen, Miss I. C. Johanson of the Central Division of the American Red Cross and Miss Thora Ingebritson, county nurse, attended the meeting at the request of the chairman.

Two mothers allowance cases were acted upon by the board and one adoption petition considered. Various other problems were discussed and suggestion made.

Each member of the board received a copy of the following letter from Mr. Hodson formerly of the State Board of Control notifying them of their reappointment.

"The State Board of Control directs me to notify you of your appointment for the year January 1st, 1923 to January 1st, 1924, as a member of the Child Welfare Board. May I express on behalf of the Children's Bureau as well as the Board of Control our appreciation of the cooperation you have extended to this office in protecting the interests of the children of your county. Service on Child Welfare Boards, when it is faithfully rendered, is not always easy nor is it always pleasant. Anyone who assumes such a responsibility pays a price for his public spirit but there is a rich reward in the knowledge that we are actually protecting the happiness and well-being of the children who might otherwise suffer. No greater call to service has ever been sounded.

It is with regret that I leave the Children's Bureau on January 1st to accept a position with the Russell Sage Foundation. I believe in the Bureau, in the Child Welfare Boards and in Minnesota's program for children. The contact I have had with a host of good people throughout the state, interested in human beings and their problems, has filled me with an abiding sense of hope for better things in our community life. I know you will give my successor, Mr. Charles F. Hall, the kind of support and cooperation which I have enjoyed. Mr. Hall has had a splendid experience as juvenile court Judge in Yellow Medicine county and you will find him eager to go forward with you in developing Minnesota's program.

And so hail and farewell!
WILLIAM HODSON,
Director."

The board discussed the following bills pending before the legislature and unanimously endorsed them. There is a great need in the state for a psychopathic hospital which is provided for in one of the bills, which hospital if erected would be in connection with the State University. The other two bills providing for the abolishment of street carnivals in Minnesota and the bill regulating child labor are important and deserve the most serious consideration.

The application of Miss Loretta Newman of Marshall county for the position of executive secretary was considered and Mrs. Gemmell was instructed to interview Miss Newman and offer her the position. She will begin her work in Crow Wing county March 1, 1923.

After a short talk by Miss Johanson on the work of the Junior Red Cross the meeting adjourned.

FAREWELL PARTY

Given at Pine River to Mrs. A. W. Moulster, Removing to Brainerd

The following is taken from the Pine River Sentinel Blaze of last week. A. W. Moulster is Maintenance Engineer of the Brainerd District of the State Highway Department, with offices in the city hall. Before coming to Brainerd, the Moulsters lived in Pine River and previous to that in Walker.

Last Saturday evening the Fancy Work Club gave a farewell banquet at the Spurrier in honor of Mrs. A. W. Moulster.

The Moulsters have moved to Brainerd to make their permanent home and it deprives the social set of one of its popular members and especially of the Fancy Work Club, of which Mrs. Moulster has been an active member.

The table was decorated with evergreen and very cunning lollypop tokens were place cards. Toasts and jests by the club were given between courses, after which the floor was cleared and solos by Selecta Davies, Jenora Leef, Lucille Bowman, Anna Iverson, Mrs. Wareing, readings by Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Dahl and Mrs. Rode, piano duets by Mrs. Wareing and Mrs. Ingraham, were rendered.

After that came games and prizes for the winners and losers. Music for those who wished to dance.

At the close of the evening Mrs. Moulster was presented with a silver tray as a token of esteem from the Fancy Workers.

BOY SCOUTS AT AMERICAN LEGION

Gave a Demonstration There Monday Evening Under Direction of Scoutmaster

CARL ZAPFFE GAVE ADDRESS

Plans for Legion's Coming Lincoln's Birthday Banquet Were Discussed

The Boy Scouts, under the direction of Harold Andrews, their leader, gave a demonstration before the American Legion at its regular meeting on Monday night.

Following the demonstration, Carl Zapffe spoke at length on Scout work, and the program planned along this line in Brainerd for the coming season.

Plans for the coming Legion banquet on Lincoln's birthday were taken up during the business meeting. This banquet is to be held at the Ransford hotel, and the G. A. R. members, with their wives, the Spanish-American war veterans and their wives are to be honorary guests.

All citizens who desire to attend this big celebration, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity, are asked to get in touch with Walter Cleary, chairman in charge.

The legion voted $10 to the Brainerd bowling team to assist them in raising sufficient funds to attend the meet in Milwaukee next month. Other organizations will also make a contribution to this worthy cause, which will help advertise our city in our neighboring state.

After the business session, the entertainment committee staged a mock court martial, in which one of the members was accused of joining the order without having served in the world war. Rev. Fred Errington acted as prosecuting attorney, A. A. Gieriet as counsel for the defendant, Milton Mahlum as judge and Dick Johnson as clerk of the court.

Many amusing features were brought out during the trial and the court ruled that it was unable to decide which of the five wars, that the United States had participated in, the defendant had served, and so sentenced him to attend the legion banquet on Feb. 12 where veterans of some of these wars would be guests, in the hope that they could identify him and thus avoid any such trouble in the future.

Entertain for Guests

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson entertained at 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Elefson of Canby who are the house guests of Rev. and Mr. Samuelson.

"PREACH IT AGAIN"

Rev. A. C. Smith Reviewed the Book at Ministerial Association Meeting

As a special feature of the Brainerd Ministerial Association's meeting Monday, Rev. A. C. Smith of the First Baptist church gave a review of the book, "Preach It Again," written by Rev. Bernard C. Clausen.

Rev. Clausen is pastor of the First Baptist church in Syracuse N. Y., a congregation composed of fifteen hundred members. His manner of presenting his sermons is rather unique, in that he takes a vote of his people once each year to determine the ten sermons which they believe to be the most beneficial, and these ten he preaches again during the next year.

The Ministerial Association had as guests Rev. Arthur Cartwright of Pine River, Rev. Haueter of Pequot and Rev. J. E. Cadwell of Backus, formerly a resident of Brainerd.

The Association members were hosts to these visitors at a noon-day luncheon given at the Harrison Cafe.

Peterson-Knerr

A very pretty wedding took place at the parsonage of the Bethlehem Lutheran church at 1 o'clock February 7th, Rev. O. S. Winther officiating when Daniel R. Peterson of South Long lake and Miss Rose J. Knerr of Daggett Brook were united in marriage.

The bride's brother, George Knerr was best man, and the bridegroom's sister Miss Mary Peterson was bridesmaid.

The bride wore a lavender changeable taffeta with tulle embroidered veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a navy blue canton crepe and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The happy couple will make their home on the bridegroom's farm about six miles from town. Both were popular young people, and have a wide circle of friends. The Dispatch joins with their many friends in wishing the young couple happiness in their new relation.

First Presbyterian Church

Owing to the severity of the weather, the regular mid-week service will be held in the manse, instead of in the church, on Thursday evening. The topic for the evening is "The Holy Catholic Church" being a continuation of the studies in the Apostles Creed.

These studies have been proving very helpful, as well as interesting, to those who have been attending, and the pastor hopes that even a large number may take advantage of them. The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30. All members of the board are requested to be present.

EUROPEAN BARGAINING

THE latest reports from Europe indicate that France and England are drawing together again. Agreement on a policy in the Ruhr and at Lausanne was not easily arrived at. The interests of the two nations are more or less conflicting and, as a result of this conflict of interests, the British refused to cooperate with the French in pressing Germany for payment of reparations, which, in turn, led to the French refusing to further British interests at Lausanne. But now, if the latest reports are true, Britain is again backing the French against Germany and expects that the French will advance the British program in the Near East.

At a glance, there seems to be something ignoble about a policy of bargaining when the lives of nations are at stake and a grave crisis threatens. The highest standards in national relationships would demand that a certain course have approval if right and continued disapproval if wrong. A system of bargaining that swings from one position to another so that there seems to be no clearly defined policy does not win the approval of on-lookers. Advantage and not right seems to determine decisions and self-interest is the determining factor in European relations.

There is, however, one other phase of the situation that is encouraging. Despite the breaks that have come during recent months France and England are able to get together in times of emergency when war with some smaller nation impends. Bargaining is better than fighting. Disagreements, discussions and concessions are better than an open break that would lead to the breaking out of another conflict in Europe. Possibly it is too early to hope that right will triumph over self-interest in the dealings of the nations with each other. But while this may be beyond the reach of present conferences and policies the fact that the two powerful nations of Europe can make concessions by which war is averted is a matter for which the nations should be devoutly thankful. Making the best possible bargain has come to be looked upon as right. Our present order is built upon such a method of arriving at an end and, after all, bargaining is better than battling and conferences are better than conflicts. The fact that the nations which dominate Europe are able to get together holds the promise of a solution of some of the vexed questions that threaten to disrupt.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS AS MONEY GETTERS

THE first report of the Carnegie corporation of New York, which shows that since its organization in 1911, $57,939,846 has been expended for educational and other good purposes, points out some of the dangers that go with large gifts to institutions. After stating that "somebody must sweat blood with gift money if its effect is not to do more harm than good," the report indicates some of the effects that follow large gifts to educational institutions.

Two of the unfortunate results mentioned are the over-emphasis on going to college and the fact that to keep pace with the go-to-college movement president of colleges have become soliciting agents whose chief function is not education by money getting.

Both of these developments, resulting from the gifts of corporations with their resultant stimulus to the go-to-college movement, are leading away from the highest educational standards. There is a danger that the present attitude to education will lead to an educated mediocracy. If the college is something that must be gone through, and the young people of the land are sent through the higher educational institutions as pork is pushed through a sausage machine, the output will show little more divergence from a common standard than two strings of sausage. The fact is that very few who go through college retain an interest in the things the college is supposed to arouse an interest in.

The second danger goes hand in hand with the first. If college presidents are chosen not because of intellectual fitness but for their facility as soliciting agents, the standards of the colleges must suffer. When the college becomes a vast machine run by a clever business manager whose interest is in money raising rather than in education the students turned out will be, in the main, machine-made products.

The University of Chicago has just elected an educationalist as president, and this may serve as a precedent in this era. If the colleges follow Chicago's lead they will be going back to precedents established when education aimed at a high culture of the individual and turned out great men. The report raises the whole question as to the wisdom of pushing young people through the machine when their tastes and ambitions are not along educational lines at all.

NEW WAYS OF ADVERTISING

THERE are many ways by which a city may be advertised and its advantages called to the attention of people in other places who are led to ask questions about it. Sending out a good band advertises a city, and a male quartet may advertise a city as the American Legion quartet advertised this city at the last state convention of the legion.

If advertising is to be really worth-while it must use the columns of the newspapers and anything that is able to secure space in the papers is good advertising. Teams that are entered for the American Bowling Congress, which is to be held in Milwaukee, will be given a good deal of newspaper publicity and the city from which a team goes will be before the eyes of the people in all parts of the United States. If the team proves to be a winner and walks off with the trophy in some of the main events then the city from which the team hails will be given publicity that could not be secured in any other way.

There are in Brainerd a number of bowlers who believe that they can "spill the pins." When it comes to spares and strikes they are sure that they will win an imposing place against opponents gathered from the four quarters of the United States. They wish to advertise Brainerd to the world by taking some of the events in the tournament and they are asking Brainerd to use them as a medium for advertising the city. It would seem that the amount of money needed to send a strong, representative team to prove what Brainerd can do on the alleys should not be held back when the amount of advertising it would buy would so far out-weigh the amount invested.

When Walter Hoover got into the limelight, Duluth was advertised to the world and the Zenith city presented the athlete with a fine home in recognition of the fine advertising he had won for his home city. Athletic prowess always secures a great deal of space in the newspapers, and advertising pays.

BRAINERD'S BOY SCOUTS

WHEN the Rotary club of our city took up the Boy Scout work it soon arrived at a conclusion the wisdom of which is being demonstrated day by day in Brainerd. The Rotarians concluded that a troop of Boy Scouts would sell the movement to the people of the city. They were correct in their judgment, the crack troop has won the praise of those who have seen it at work and Brainerd is interested in this movement for the boys.

The patient work that has been done by the members of this club, in developing a troop, under able leadership, is worthy of praise. The club is proving the wisdom of a policy that asks to be shown what can be done before undertaking a work that will cost from $3,000 to $4,000 per annum. By arousing interest as a preliminary to securing support the Rotarians have already guaranteed the success of the Boy Scout movement in Brainerd.

THE burglar who surrendered to the sheriff who had fed him and treated him kindly emphasizes the value of the gospel of practical helpfulness. An empty stomach sometimes makes criminals and a square meal sometimes develops good citizens.

EVEN though the national commander of the American Legion says so, we can't quite see why anyone should emulate Bismarck's faults. Are we never to get away from the bad things the old fellows of history did while they lived?

THE National Auto show is staged for the ladies and perhaps this is as it should be. While hubby attends to the wheel, wife has nothing to do but admire the car.

THE cold wave has receded and Minnesotans are glad that it was a wave and not something that stayed put.

It's bad management to raise the price of gasoline one cent during auto show week.

GOOD ROADS PROVED PAYING INVESTMENT

Automobile tourists left more than $30,000,000 of new money in Minnesota last year, according to conservative estimates given in a highway bulletin. Although Minnesota has only just begun to develop its attractions for tourists, it is said automobile travelers in the state last season spent nearly $5 for every dollar paid by motor vehicle owners here for better highways, and $4,000,000 more than the aggregate raised in the state each year for all road work.

"It must be realized that it was our improved state trunk routes or so-called Babcock highways that made it possible for these people to visit us," said a good road advocate "and if we are to continue to attract these people to Minnesota our road building program must be continued so that our highway system will stand on a par with the interstate highways leading into the state."

Here are the bulletin figures: State highway traffic census takers counted a daily average of 15,568 passenger automobiles with licenses of other state, and it is estimated that they carried 50,000 visitors. Assuming that 20,000 were entertained at homes or camped out, it would mean $60,000 at $2 each a day for subsistence. Their miscellaneous expenditures at $1 a day would mean $50,000 more. The average tourist travels 150 miles a day consuming 10 gallons of 24-cent gasoline and a quart of 30-cent oil and the tourists cars took $42,033 a day of fuel and lubricant.

So if the given averages are applied for only three months—a 120-day season—there was $30,240,000 of money left in Minnesota last summer by the highway tourists.

EUROPEAN BARGAINING

THE latest reports from Europe indicate that France and England are drawing together again. Agreement on a policy in the Ruhr and at Lausanne was not easily arrived at. The interests of the two nations are more or less conflicting and, as a result of this conflict of interests, the British refused to cooperate with the French in pressing Germany for payment of reparations, which, in turn, led to the French refusing to further British interests at Lausanne. But now, if the latest reports are true, Britain is again backing the French against Germany and expects that the French will advance the British program in the Near East.

At a glance, there seems to be something ignoble about a policy of bargaining when the lives of nations are at stake and a grave crisis threatens. The highest standards in national relationships would demand that a certain course have approval if right and continued disapproval if wrong. A system of bargaining that swings from one position to another so that there seems to be no clearly defined policy does not win the approval of on-lookers. Advantage and not right seems to determine decisions and self-interest is the determining factor in European relations.

There is, however, one other phase of the situation that is encouraging. Despite the breaks that have come during recent months France and England are able to get together in times of emergency when war with some smaller nation impends. Bargaining is better than fighting. Disagreements, discussions and concessions are better than an open break that would lead to the breaking out of another conflict in Europe. Possibly it is too early to hope that right will triumph over self-interest in the dealings of the nations with each other. But while this may be beyond the reach of present conferences and policies the fact that the two powerful nations of Europe can make concessions by which war is averted is a matter for which the nations should be devoutly thankful. Making the best possible bargain has come to be looked upon as right. Our present order is built upon such a method of arriving at an end and, after all, bargaining is better than battling and conferences are better than conflicts. The fact that the nations which dominate Europe are able to get together holds the promise of a solution of some of the vexed questions that threaten to disrupt.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS AS MONEY GETTERS

THE first report of the Carnegie corporation of New York, which shows that since its organization in 1911, $57,939,846 has been expended for educational and other good purposes, points out some of the dangers that go with large gifts to institutions. After stating that "somebody must sweat blood with gift money if its effect is not to do more harm than good," the report indicates some of the effects that follow large gifts to educational institutions.

Two of the unfortunate results mentioned are the over-emphasis on going to college and the fact that to keep pace with the go-to-college movement president of colleges have become soliciting agents whose chief function is not education by money getting.

Both of these developments, resulting from the gifts of corporations with their resultant stimulus to the go-to-college movement, are leading away from the highest educational standards. There is a danger that the present attitude to education will lead to an educated mediocracy. If the college is something that must be gone through, and the young people of the land are sent through the higher educational institutions as pork is pushed through a sausage machine, the output will show little more divergence from a common standard than two strings of sausage. The fact is that very few who go through college retain an interest in the things the college is supposed to arouse an interest in.

The second danger goes hand in hand with the first. If college presidents are chosen not because of intellectual fitness but for their facility as soliciting agents, the standards of the colleges must suffer. When the college becomes a vast machine run by a clever business manager whose interest is in money raising rather than in education the students turned out will be, in the main, machine-made products.

The University of Chicago has just elected an educationalist as president, and this may serve as a precedent in this era. If the colleges follow Chicago's lead they will be going back to precedents established when education aimed at a high culture of the individual and turned out great men. The report raises the whole question as to the wisdom of pushing young people through the machine when their tastes and ambitions are not along educational lines at all.

ADAM COOK IS ASSASSINATED

Former Brainerd Man Was a Foreman in Northern Pacific Shops at Tacoma, Wash.

WAS ASSAILED BY 2 GUNMEN
Detectives Scout Idea of Highway Robbery, Believe Motive Was Revenge for Fancied Grievances

G. W. Chadbourne is in receipt of a copy of the Tacoma News Tribune, Tacoma, Washington, under date of Feb. 2nd, containing a front-page account of the assassination of Adam Cook, foreman in the N. P. shops at that city, who at one time was a resident of Brainerd, numbering among his friends most of the older residents of this city. The account of his death is, in part, as follows:

Gunmen, believed by the police to be discharged employees of the Northern Pacific car shops of South Tacoma, held up Adam Cook, 63, foreman of the car department, within a few steps of his back porch Thursday night and fired a shot that caused Cook's death at 6:10 Friday morning. Scouting the idea that highway robbery was the motive, city detectives after an all-night search for the assassins, declared there was little doubt that the men shot in revenge for fancied grievances against Cook.

Cook's son, George W., an employee of the Northern Pacific railway at Ellensburg, arrived at the family home Friday morning. He told the police that his father had been threatened time and again, had received warning notes and was marked for murder by disgruntled former employees. Cook, the police were told, was accustomed to carry a pistol himself on account of labor troubles, but if he had such a weapon with him Thursday night, he had no opportunity to draw it, the police said.

Cook's statement before he died indicated that the men who accosted him, and the one who shot him, acted the parts of common highway men, though neither was masked. On the other hand, Cook has had for years a position requiring the hiring and firing of men of all classes, among them the roughest foreign element, and has been in a position to engage bitter enemies.

Just before going on the operating table, Cook made the following dying statement to the doctors, H. A. Lyddon, superintendent of the N. P. shops and Howard Kitchen, foreman of the shops stockyard:

"Two young men did it. They were slight of build. I did not know either one of them by name. They jumped up at me and one commanded, 'Stick up your hands.' Before I could get my hands up one of them shot."

Capt. J. S. Strickland of the detective department declared, after working through the night on the case, that it was a plain case of murder, highway robbery not being the motive for the shooting.

Mr. Cook had attended the Thursday evening smoker of the Eagles' Athletic Club in company with H. W. Kitchen. After the smoker the two men departed, Cook boarding a South Tacoma car and getting off at 54th street and Union avenue, walked directly toward his home, 4301 S. Washington St.

As he turned in the alley at the rear of his house he had gone but a few steps, he said, when two men jumped out from the shadow of a pole, and one, thrusting a pistol into his stomach, ordered him to put up his hands.

"I was a little slow about sticking my hands up," Cook told the officers, and the man nearest him fired without warning. There were plain powder marks on Cook's clothing.

Cook, shot through the abdomen in such a way that the bullet, after passing through intestines and kidneys, found exit at his back, dragged himself through his yard and onto his back porch. His wife, alone in the house rushed out at the sound of the shot. Neighbors were also aroused and in a few minutes the police arrived. The injured man was taken directly to the hospital.

H. A. Lyddon, superintendent of the shops, said Friday morning: "Mr. Cook was one of the most loyal employees of the N. P. His ability as a directing head of the car department was recognized by all of the officials of the system. His long service, some 43 years, is certain proof of his loyalty and ability."

Mr. Cook has been in the employ of the Northern Pacific railway for 43 years, and had been employed at the South Tacoma shops since 1896. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anne E. Cook, and two sons, Horace

E. of Bozeman, Montana, and George W. of Ellensburg.

Mr. Cook, as well as Howard Kitchen and H. A. Lyddon mentioned in the above article, are all former residents of Brainerd. The murdered man is still a member of the Brainerd Masonic orders.

FOR MOOSEHEART

Show at New Park Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, February 7th and 8th

Plans have been complete for the Mooseheart endowment picture. Ed Hall, chairman of the entertainment committee for the Brainerd lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, announces that such occasion has been set for Wednesday and Thursday, February 7 and 8, at the New Park theatre.

The profit realized from this show goes to the endowment fund now being created for the children of Mooseheart, as a perpetual guarantee that the work thus started will be forever continued, and that no little Moose shall ever be deprived of the proper care, education and training because his or her father unfortunately died and left them otherwise destitute. The great Moose steps in and adopts them, loves and trains them, in such a way as to receive the acclaim of the entire civilized world. There is no greater work than at Mooseheart; there is no greater exponent of practical Christianity.

KEEP THE MONEY ALL AT HOME

"Buy at Home" Movement is Gaining Ground Daily and is Best for Local Community

KEEPS MONEY CIRCULATING
Each and Every Transaction Made, Every Dollar Spent, Makes for Good of City

When the United States of America, as a means of conserving the financial resources of the country, found it advisable to pay our troops in the world war in orders rather than in cash, and gold at that, there is no longer need of an argument to uphold the "Buy at Home" movement. All arguments are answered and the mail order traders have not a leg to stand on. Why this move on the part of our government officials? The credit of the United States is the greatest in the world. Those orders cashed in merchandise abroad will return to the United States as payment for additional goods, our gold stays here. If our government sent the gold to Europe a larger per cent of it would stay there, for American gold is at a premium the world over. Just so with the money sent away by the mail order traders. The greater per cent of this money stays where they send it and does no good whatever to their local community. This example but illustrates, only in a larger sense, community interests. Why should the farmer or townsman send money to Chicago when the same or better goods may be purchased at home? What proof? Here it is! The larger number contributing to the support of an institution the smaller amount per capita necessary to support it. Examples: If each and every man, woman and child in the United States had contributed 5c to the support of our war measures, just imagine the staggering figures resulting! $5,000,000,000.

By this same token, if all the people of a community would patronize that community's merchants, these merchants would be given a greater purchasing power, resulting in a greater reduction of costs to consumer. The money is kept in circulation in that community; bank deposits are increased, making money easily secured at a lower rate of interest. The farmer, townsman, merchant, doctor, newspaper man, barber, druggist, hardware, building material, etc., each and every one find an added income. New factories are secured, more families are brought into the town, greater housing facilities are necessary, giving employment to the building tradesman. Each and every transaction made, every dollar spent, makes for the good of the particular community. The advertiser or concerted trades there makes it possible for the merchants to carry larger and more varied selections of stocks, which, bought right, may be sold right.

ADAM COOK IS ASSASSINATED

Former Brainerd Man Was a Foreman in Northern Pacific Shops at Tacoma, Wash.

WAS ASSAILED BY 2 GUNMEN

Detectives Scout Idea of Highway Robbery, Believe Motive Was Revenge for Fancied Grievances

G. W. Chadbourne is in receipt of a copy of the Tacoma News Tribune, Tacoma, Washington, under date of Feb. 2nd, containing a front-page account of the assassination of Adam Cook, foreman in the N. P. shops at that city, who at one time was a resident of Brainerd, numbering among his friends most of the older residents of this city. The account of his death is, in part, as follows:

Gunmen, believed by the police to be discharged employees of the Northern Pacific car shops of South Tacoma, held up Adam Cook, 63, foreman of the car department, within a few steps of his back porch Thursday night and fired a shot that caused Cook's death at 6:19 Friday morning. Scouting the idea that highway robbery was the motive, city detectives after an all-night search for the assassins, declared there was little doubt that the men shot in revenge for fancied grievances against Cook.

Cook's son, George W., an employee of the Northern Pacific railway at Ellensburg, arrived at the family home Friday morning. He told the police that his father had been threatened time and again, had received warning notes and was marked for murder by disgruntled former employees. Cook, the police were told, was accustomed to carry a pistol himself on account of labor troubles, but if he had such a weapon with him Thursday night, he had no opportunity to draw it, the police said.

Cook's statement before he died indicated that the men who accosted him, and the one who shot him, acted the parts of common highway men, though neither was masked. On the other hand, Cook has had for years a position requiring the hiring and firing of men of all classes, among them the roughest foreign element, and has been in a position to engage bitter enemies.

Just before going on the operating table, Cook made the following dying statement to the doctors, H. A. Lydden, superintendent of the N. P. shops and Howard Kitchen, foreman of the shops stockyard:

"Two young men did it. They were slight of build. I did not know either one of them by name. They jumped up at me and one commanded, 'Stick up your hands.' Before I could get my hands up one of them shot."

Capt. J. S. Strickland of the detective department declared, after working through the night on the case, that it was a plain case of murder, highway robbery not being the motive for the shooting.

Mr. Cook had attended the Thursday evening smoker of the Eagles' Athletic Club in company with H. W. Kitchen. After the smoker the two men departed, Cook boarding a South Tacoma car and getting off at 54th street and Union avenue, walked directly toward his home, 4301 S. Washington St.

As he turned in the alley at the rear of his house he had gone but a few steps, he said, when two men jumped out from the shadow of a pole, and one, thrusting a pistol into his stomach, ordered him to put up his hands.

"I was a little slow about sticking my hands up," Cook told the officers, and the man nearest him fired without warning. There were plain powder marks on Cook's clothing.

Cook, shot through the abdomen in such a way that the bullet, after passing through intestines and kidneys, found exit at his back, dragged himself through his yard and onto his back porch. His wife, alone in the house rushed out at the sound of the shot. Neighbors were also aroused and in a few minutes the police arrived. The injured man was taken directly to the hospital.

H. A. Lydden, superintendent of the shops, said Friday morning: "Mr. Cook was one of the most loyal employees of the N. P. His ability as a directing head of the car department was recognized by all of the officials of the system. His long service, some 43 years, is certain proof of his loyalty and ability."

Mr. Cook has been in the employ of the Northern Pacific railway for 43 years, and had been employed at the South Tacoma shops since 1896. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anne E. Cook, and two sons, Horace

E. of Bozeman, Montana, and George W. of Ellensburg.

Mr. Cook, as well as Howard Kitchen and H. A. Lydden mentioned in the above article, are all former residents of Brainerd. The murdered man is still a member of the Brainerd Masonic orders.

Show at New Park Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, February 7th and 8th

Plans have been complete for the Mooseheart endowment picture.

Ed Hall, chairman of the entertainment committee for the Brainerd lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, announces that such occasion has been set for Wednesday and Thursday, February 7 and 8, at the New Park theatre.

The profit realized from this show goes to the endowment fund now being created for the children of Mooseheart, as a perpetual guarantee that the work thus started will be forever continued and that no little Moose shall ever be deprived of the proper care, education and training because his or her father unfortunately died and left them otherwise destitute. The great Moose steps in and adopts them, loves and trains them, in such a way as to receive the acclaim of the entire civilized world. There is no greater work than at Mooseheart; there is no greater exponent of practical Christianity.

KEEP THE MONEY ALL AT HOME

"Buy at Home" Movement is Gaining Ground Daily and is Best for Local Community

KEEPS MONEY CIRCULATING

Each and Every Transaction Made, Every Dollar Spent, Makes for Good of City

When the United States of America, as a means of conserving the financial resources of the country, found it advisable to pay our troops in the world war in orders rather than in cash, and gold at that, there is no longer need of an argument to uphold the "Buy at Home" movement. All arguments are answered and the mail orders traders have not a leg to stand on. Why this move on the part of our government officials? The credit of the United States is the greatest in the world. Those orders cashed in merchandise abroad will return to the United States as payment for additional goods, our gold stays here. If our government sent the gold to Europe a larger per cent of it would stay there, for American gold is at a premium the world over. Just so with the money sent away by the mail order traders. The greater per cent of this money stays where they send it and does no good whatever to their local community. This example but illustrates, only in a larger sense, community interests. Why should the farmer or townsman send money to Chicago when the same or better goods may be purchased at home? What proof? Here it is! The larger number contributing to the support of an institution the smaller amount per capita necessary to support it. Examples: If each and every man, woman and child in the United States had contributed 5c to the support of our war measures, just imagine the staggering figures resulting—$5,000,000,000.

By this same token, if all the people of a community would patronize that community's merchants, these merchants would be given a greater purchasing power, resulting in a greater reduction of costs to consumer. The money is kept in circulation in that community; bank deposits are increased, making money easily secured at a lower rate of interest. The farmer, townsman, merchant, doctor, newspaper man, barber, druggist, hardware, building material, etc., each and every one find an added income. New factories are secured, more families are brought into the town, greater housing facilities are necessary, giving employment to the building tradesman. Each and every transaction made, every dollar spent, makes for the good of the particular community. The added or concerted trades there makes it possible for the merchants to carry larger and more varied selections of stocks, which, bought right, may be sold right.

If I spend my dollars out of Brainerd and you spend your dollars out of Brainerd and all the people spend their dollars out of Brainerd, what is to become of Brainerd?

excellent market. Every foot of land within ten to fifteen miles of such a town is bound to increase in value. The people will demand better roads to a town of this sort. It is cheaper to haul grain and produce over a good road than a bad one. The better the roads the more added value to your real estate. There is absolutely no limit to the good a man can do for himself and his holdings by getting vigorously and enthusiastically into the National Buy-At-Home movement.

GIVING JOHNNY WILSON A FIGHTING CHANCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Feb. 7.—Beyond showing twice that he is the champion of Mike O'Dowd, Johnny Wilson hasn't done a thing much in two years.

Johnny failed to convince the New York Boxing Commission that he was the world's middleweight champion and he has had a tough time making anyone believe he could even fight.

World's ring titles usually bring fortunes and luck in great gobs, but when Wilson stumbled into the middleweight regal robes he got his feet all tangled up and he is still down.

He has been under suspension so long by the New York Commission that a change of heart is being felt in the official circle and it is understood that he will soon be allowed to go back to his business.

The New York commissioners should be commended for symptoms of giving Wilson a square deal, but after looking over the situation, it begins to appear that the commission is being nice to Wilson just to give him a harder sock.

When Wilson does go back to work, he will find so few middleweights who can draw a dime at the door that he will have to start associating with the light heavyweights.

And what a nice congenial bunch of boys he will find hanging around in that class with a sock ready for him—Greb, Gibbons, Tunney, Loughran and a few others.

Wilson should have been reinstated many months ago. He has been under suspension for alleged violation of a rule that other champions failed to observe and have escaped without even notice.

As long as Wilson is not permitted to earn a living, Harry Greb should not be permitted to box in New York.

Wilson was suspended because he failed to accept the challenge of Greb. When Greb was challenged, he ignored it because he did not want to make the weight in the class.

Greb was reinstated after serving a few weeks, but Wilson is "still on the ground."

If Wilson is to be made that goat of the "champions must defend their titles every six months," Leonard, Lynch and Dempsey ought to get the same dose.

Dempsey's talk that he has no one to fight, that he is battling king with no more world's to conquer, is the truth if Harry Wills, Tommy Gibbons, Jess Willard, Bill Brennan and a couple of others are not considered as being in the world.

Dempsey, however, may not be afraid to step into the ring, but Joe Lynch is getting timid about his shadow and Benny Leonard is suffering chills in his shoes.

Dempsey will go into the ring if he can get $500,000 from some weak-minded promoter and the other pair want almost as much to defend their titles.

SCIENTISTS FIND SKULL 5,000,000 YEARS OLD

New York, Feb. 6.—The long discussed question of whether Asia and America were once connected may be solved, circumstantially at least, by the discovery in central Mongolia of the skull of a dwarf dinosaur by the Third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. Its age is estimated at the museum at not less than 5,000 years.

Several scientists have insisted the American fauna in the latter part of the Cretaceous area contained many immigrants from Asia. Further discoveries in the Asiatic fossil beds may clinch the theory.

There is no suffering like the torture from piles. This continual suffering reacts upon the nervous system and may eventually cause a complete physical breakdown. It is not necessary to endure the torture from piles when quick, sure relief is right at hand. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment relieves piles at once—and not only that, when this treatment is persisted in, it affords lasting benefit. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is nationally famous as a remedy for piles, hemorrhoids, ring worm, sore feet, blisters, insect bites, pimples, blackheads, chafing, chapped hands, chilblains, frost bite and all skin irritations. Read what Arthur Fleury of 68 Ruth St., New Bedford, Mass., says:

"I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment for Piles and got relief from it. That is about fifteen years ago and I always use Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment when another attack of Piles is coming on me. There is no better Medicine for Piles that I know of that will give you better relief."

Constance Talmadge, Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan in "The Primitive Lover"

What Is Primitive Lover? Constance Asks

Girls! What's a primitive lover? Constance Talmadge wants to know. The screen star has succumbed to the suits of all kinds of Romeos during her screen career and feels that she should know. The difficulty is, as she admits herself that she doesn't.

She has been wooed with dances and dinners, tempestuously won by speeding automobiles driven by love crazed swains, married out of pity over failure and threatened with death until the signing of the "Till death do us part."

But in her latest picture, "The Primitive Lover," to be shown at the New Park tonight and Thursday she has to yield to a lover who uses cave man methods, according to the recognized code. When the story was first planned it was intended to make the suffering a mental one. Shutting up a girl as a captive in an isolated mountain hut was thought to have been a sufficient strain to make her surrender.

"Not so," Connie retorted when she read the script. "You gotta treat 'em rough."

That started a debate in which Sidney Franklin, the director, and Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan, the two leading men all participated. In the end the star had her way.

"That seemed the way a cave man would act to me," she commented after the picture had been made, "but I want to find out what the forty million women in the United States think about it."

Rupert Hughes "Remembrance" at Lyceum Theatre

It is a panegyric of Father—the established order of things in the motion picture world? and should he be suppressed by the producers?

Mr. Hughes has succeeded in upsetting the picture tradition that the public is interested only in flappers and sweet young things whose minds are filled only with thoughts of clothes and good times and young men whose hair is always wonderfully slicked and brilliantly brilliant. He has dared to make an elderly person, with rumpled hair and a mind, the chief character in a motion picture. He did it in "Hold Your Horses" and the public responded by flocking to see the picture. He did it again in "The Old Nest" and the public made it a "million dollar picture." Encouraged by the unsuspected ability of the picture-going public to see beauty in character and find entertainment in the screen reflection of real, everyday people and events, Mr. Hughes wrote and directed for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, "Remembrance," his latest released film, which will be the attraction at the Lyceum theatre for tonight and Thursday.

It is a panegyric of Father—the father of any average American family of "middle class" circumstances in any average American city. Hard-working "Pop" Grout whose self-sacrificing attention to business has made his store the biggest in the city and has brought his family from poverty to the "dress clothes" stage of social life, is the center of attraction in this photoplay—and Goldwyn says the public is going to "ent" this picture up as it did "The Old Nest".

FANNING WITH FARRELL

GIVING JOHNNY WILSON A FIGHTING CHANCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Feb. 7.—Beyond showing twice that he is the champion of Mike O'Dowd, Johnny Wilson hasn't done a thing much in two years.

Johnny failed to convince the New York Boxing Commission that he was the world's middleweight champion and he has had a tough time making anyone believe he could even fight.

World's ring titles usually bring fortunes and luck in great gobs, but when Wilson stumbled into the middleweight regal robes he got his feet all tangled up and he is still down.

He has been under suspension so long by the New York Commission that a change of heart is being felt in the official circle and it is understood that he will soon be allowed to go back to his business.

The New York commissioners should be commended for symptoms of giving Wilson a square deal, but after looking over the situation, it begins to appear that the commission is being nice to Wilson just to give him a harder task.

When Wilson does go back to work, he will find so few middleweights who can draw a dime at the door that he will have to start associating with the light heavyweights.

And what a nice congenial bunch of boys he will find hanging around in that class with a sock ready for him—Greb, Gibbons, Tunney, Loughran and a few others.

Wilson should have been reinstated many months ago. He has been under suspension for alleged violation of a rule that other champions failed to observe and have escaped without even notice.

As long as Wilson is not permitted to earn a living, Harry Greb should not be permitted to box in New York.

Wilson was suspended because he failed to accept the challenge of Greb. When Greb was challenged, he ignored it because he did not want to make the weight in the class.

Greb was reinstated after serving a few weeks, but Wilson is "still on the ground."

If Wilson is to be made that goat of the "champions must defend their titles every six months," Leonard, Lynch and Dempsey ought to get the same dose.

Dempsey's talk that he has no one to fight, that he is battling king with no more world's to conquer, is the truth if Harry Wills, Tommy Gibbons, Jess Willard, Bill Brennan and a couple of others are not considered as being in the world.

Dempsey, however, may not be afraid to step into the ring, but Joe Lynch is getting timid about his shadow and Benny Leonard is suffering chills in his shoes.

Dempsey will go into the ring if he can get $500,000 from some weak-minded promoter and the other pair want almost as much to defend their titles.

Constance Talmadge, Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan in "The Primitive Lover"

What is Primitive Lover? Constance Asks

Girls! What's a primitive lover? Constance Talmadge wants to know. The screen star has succumbed to the suits of all kinds of Romeos during her screen career and feels that she should know. The difficulty is, as she admits herself that she doesn't.

She has been wooed with dances and dinners, temptuously won by speeding automobiles driven by love crazed swains, married out of pity over failure and threatened with death until the signing of the "Till death do us part."

But in her latest picture, "The Primitive Lover," to be shown at the New Park tonight and Thursday she has to yield to a lover who uses cave man methods, according to the recognized code. When the story was first planned it was intended to make the suffering a mental one. Shutting up a girl as a captive in an isolated mountain hut was thought to have been a sufficient strain to make her surrender.

"Not so," Connie retorted when she read the script. "You gotta treat 'em rough."

That started a debate in which Sidney Franklin, the director, and Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan, the two leading men all participated. In the end the star had her way.

"That seemed the way a cave man would act to me," she commented after the picture had been made, "but I want to find out what the forty million women in the United States think about it."

Rupert Hughes "Remembrance" at Lyceum Theatre

It is a panegyric of Father—the established order of things in the motion picture world? and should be suppressed by the producers?

Mr. Hughes has succeeded in upsetting the picture tradition that the public is interested only in flappers and sweet young things whose minds are filled only with thoughts of clothes and good times and young men whose hair is always wonderfully slicked and brilliantly brilliant. He has dared to make an elderly person, with rumpled hair and a mind, the chief character in a motion picture. He did it in "Hold Your Horses" and the public responded by flocking to see the picture. He did it again in "The Old Nest" and the public made it a "million dollar picture." Encouraged by the unsuspected ability of the picture-going public to see beauty in character and find entertainment in the screen reflection of real, everyday people and events, Mr. Hughes wrote and directed for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, "Remembrance," his latest released film, which will be the attraction at the Lyceum theatre, for tonight and Thursday.

It is a panegyric of Father—the father of any average American family of "middle class" circumstances in any average American city. Hard-working "Pop" Grout whose self-sacrificing attention to business has made his store the biggest in the city and has brought his family from poverty to the "dress clothes" stage of social life, is the center of attraction in this photoplay—and Goldwyn says the public is going to "eat" this picture up as it did "The Old Nest."

SCIENTISTS FIND SKULL, 5,000,000 YEARS OLD

New York, Feb. 6.—The long discussed question of whether Asia and America were once connected may be solved, circumstantially at least, by the discovery in central Mongolia of the skull of a dwarf dinosaur by the Third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. Its age is estimated at the museum at not less than 5,000 years.

Several scientists have insisted the American fauna in the latter part of the Cretaceous area contained many immigrants from Asia. Further discoveries in the Asiatic fossil beds may clinch the theory.

"I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment for Piles and got relief from it. That is about fifteen years ago and I always use Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment when another attack of Piles is coming on me. There is no better Medicine for Piles that I know of that will give you better relief."

ANOTHER BRAINERD CASE

It Proves That There's A Way Out For Many Suffering Brainerd Folks

Just another report of a case in Brainerd. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Brainerd with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Hans Anderson, 502 Norwood St., says: "I caught a cold while at work and my back started aching. I noticed it first when I stooped to shovel some coal. I got such a sharp catch in my back I thought I had been hit. From then on I had a steady ache and pains in my back and I felt sore and stiff in the morning. My kidneys acted unnaturally and between all these symptoms I was feeling pretty badly. I tired easily and was usually all in before the day was over. I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Durr's Drug Store and after using them a short time I was rid of these pains and the kidney disorder."
